Forthcoming events

Hello

The angels are keeping me very busy at the moment – there's loads going on. The angels are working with me on book two and they have me very excited about it ... as well as working very hard. I hope that it will be published next autumn. In the mean time Angels in my hair goes from strength to strength, as I write I'm looking at the Japanese version of the book – I'm fascinated that you have to read it back to front. The angels showed me this book years ago, but I still find all that is unfolding amazing.

I know that many of you are playing an important role in spreading the word of Angels in my hair. Some of you have told me on the prayer scroll that you are planning to give it as a Christmas present. Perhaps you'll be able to come to one of the signings details below – and then I can dedicate the book for you.

I'm also starting to do speaking events which allow me to reach a much bigger group of people. Below you will details of one in London on the 1st February. There will also be one in Dublin – probably in February. It's not all finalised yet, but when it is details will be on my website. There will also be an opportunity for those of you who can't travel to take part in a live telephone conference with me. Again details are not finalised but will be very shortly – it's likely to be at the end of this month. Again all details will be on my website – lornabyrne.com

When I read what people have written to me in the prayer scroll I am overwhelmed to hear how much Angels in my hair is helping people. Many tell me it has changed their lives and given them back courage and hope. People take enormous comfort from knowing that they are not alone, that no matter what is happening in their lives, that there is help out there, that there always has been help out there all their lives, even if it was unknown to them until now - that they can trust God and the angels to help them in their lives whatever is going on.

The angels help us in so many ways. Today I was coming into Dublin at rush hour on the bus –and a young woman who I think might have been French got on. The bus was packed and she initially stood. I saw the light of her Guardian Angel open for a moment to attract my attention, but it closed before I could see what it really look like. A few moments later I saw two white angels standing beside her and they were whispering in her ear. Some people got off and she sat down near the back of the bus. The bus filled again very quickly though and I saw a tiny little old lady got on, no one offered her a seat. The two angels whispered again to the young woman and she stood up, holding on to the seat as she called out to the elderly lady and gave her, her seat. It was beautiful to see the angels helping the old lady in this way. The journey went on – it's about an hour in total, and eventually the young woman again got a seat, and sat down gratefully. Shortly after though a mother and young baby got on and once more all the seats were full. The two angels whispered in her ear and she got up again. Shortly after sitting down the baby went to sleep and was quiet for the rest of the journey. I felt great joy to watch her, listening so well to her angels - I said a prayer to God and the angels asking that she would keep on listening. I know that other angels were whispering to other people on the bus, particularly those who were healthy and strong – but they weren't listening, and in fact looked at the young woman as if she were a little foolish to give up her seat.

Recently I have had quite a number of children on the prayer scroll – children from about eight years of age up. Quite a number of these children tell me what's going on in their families, particularly where there are problems or worries. The children have told me that the prayer of the healing angels helps them a lot, and that it's great to know that they have a Guardian angel. Lots of children are benefiting from the book. Perhaps you know a child who would also find comfort in reading it.

If you can come to one of the events below I look forward to saying hello. If you think any of your friends might be interested be sure to send this mail on to them.

Blessings

Lorna
